Claims 26-33, 38, 44 and 47 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. The restriction and election of species requirement were timely traversed in the reply filed on July 29, 2003.

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 34-37, 46 and 46 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claims contain subject matter not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventors had possession of the claimed invention at the time the application was filed.

The rejection is maintained for the reasons of record set forth in the previous Office actions. The arguments filed October 26, 2005 have been considered but are unpersuasive.

1. The specification on page 44, Table 2, Examples 5-8 containing only Epoxy resin 3 which is a tetraphenylethane epoxy resin according to page 22, lines 18-20 substantiates the sole presence of the tetraphenylethane epoxy resin described on page 17, lines 18-21, shown in Table 2 on page 44 and defined in withdrawn independent claim 26. Page 18, lines 3-5 generally describes a mixture of epoxy resins.

Art Unit: 1712

The only support for specific blends of a phenolbiphenylaralkyl epoxy resin and tetraphenylethane epoxy resin resides in Table 5 on page 44 wherein ratio of tetraphenylethane epoxy resin:phenolbiphenylaralkyl epoxy resin is 0.2:1, or 1:5.

2. The description of a general mixture of epoxy resins along with examples containing only a tetraphenylethane epoxy resin does not support the claimed broader ratio range of at least 1:5 which includes greater amounts of tetraphenylethane epoxy resin not contemplated.

Claims 34-37, 45 and 46 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japanese Patent No. 9-268219 in view of Japanese Patent Nos. 57-38814 and 58-150581.

The rejection is maintained for the reasons of record set forth in the previous Office actions. The arguments filed October 26, 2005 have been considered but are unpersuasive.

3. Japanese '219 (page 7, the last two lines) espouses the use of the composition as a closure ingredient for electronic ingredients, which is a rough translation for an encapsulant for an electronic device.

4. Japanese '219 on page 1, paragraph 3 discusses the inferior water resistance and mechanical strength of a polyfunctional epoxy resin such as a cresol novolak epoxy resin which is improved by its replacement with the claimed phenolbiphenylaralkyl epoxy resin (page 2, paragraph 5).

The reference is not averse to the inclusion of a polyfunctional epoxy resin as evidenced by page 6, paragraphs 33-34 wherein the incorporation of up to 30% by weight of other epoxy resins such as a novolak epoxy resin is suitable.

5. The motivation for employing the tetraphenylethane epoxy resin of Japanese '814 and '581 as the other epoxy resin of Japanese '219 in order to enhance the heat distortion temperature (Japanese '814) and mechanical properties (Japanese '581) is consistent with the objective of better mechanical strength desired by Japanese '219. According to MPEP § 2144, "Rationale Different from Applicant's is Permissible," "[t]he reason or motivation to modify the reference may often suggest what the inventor has done, but for a different purpose or to solve a different problem. It is not necessary that the prior art suggest the combination to achieve the same advantage or result discovered by applicant." In re Linter, 173 USPQ 560, CCPA 1972; In re Dillon, 16 USPQ 2d 1897, Federal Circuit 1990.

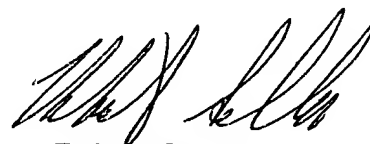

6. It is not necessary that the reason for the use of the tetraphenylethane epoxy resin of Japanese '814 and '581 as the other epoxy resin of Japanese '219 address the claimed objective of flame retardancy without a flame retardant or flame retardant auxiliary. There is no evidence of record that the closest prior art example of Japanese '219 (page 10, paragraph 57 employing phenolbiphenylalkyl epoxy resin (B) according to page 9, paragraph 52 and a novolak epoxy resin (D) as indicated on page 10, paragraph 55) does not exhibit flame retardancy. Neither the disclosure nor examples of Japanese '219 mention any flame retardant or flame retardant auxiliary.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
